California Native Garden Foundation (CNGF)

This three-month program will start this summer. Some may be paid opportunities, with the potential for full-time jobs at the end of the program. Room and board may be included.

We are looking for students or graduates of programs in:

- plant science
- sustainable landscape management
- sustainable urban agriculture
- other related disciplines

We are especially interested in students who have shown an aptitude for native California plants or are knowledgeable about regenerative organic agriculture.

We want to train talented students who wish to have careers in ecovillage/eco-neighborhood development, including:

- ecoliteracy teaching
- native garden care
- installation and setting up regenerative organic agriculture urban farms in ecovillages

Interested students can contact Alrie at cngf.org@gmail.com or text me at (408) 666-1518.

Alrie Middlebrook
President
The California Native Garden Foundation